The Medicine that Cures
—IS—VEGETINE.
Taking into consideration the character of its vouchers, the history of its cures and the immense increasing demand, VEGETINE may be fairly entitled the leading medicine of the age.
For scrofula in the blood, VEGETINE is an infallible remedy, and no person need suffer from tumors, ulcers, and all diseases arising from impure blood, if VEGETINE is used according to directions. There is not a case of scrofula in existence that VEGETINE will not cure, provided, however, the vital functions have not lost their power of action, all that may be said to the contrary notwithstanding.
VEGETINE is pleasant to the taste, mild in its influence, and absolute in its action on disease, as the following unquestionable evidence will show.

PAID NEARLY
$400.00!!
JANUARY 2, 1875.
H. R. STEVENS, Esq:
Dear Sir: When about six months old I was vaccinated. The parties who were vaccinated from the same virus died from the humor. The humor spread over me to such an extent that I was rolled in bran to prevent me from scratching my person. The disease finally settled in my head. I remained in this condition about twenty years, troubled all the time with sores breaking in my head and discharging corruption from my ear. At this time a small kernel appeared on my neck, gradually increasing in size until a tumor formed of such immense size I could see it by turning my eyes downward. All this time I was taking various remedies for my blood without any substantial benefit.
I then went to a prominent physician in Boston who, during his treatment of six months, lanced the tumor eight times, which cost me nearly $400. This left me with a rough, aggravated sore, without at all diminishing the size of the tumor, and in a sickly, feeble condition. I consulted another physician in Natick, who, after considerable time, succeeded in healing the sore without reducing the size. At this point I commenced to use VEGETINE, through the earnest persuasion of a friend. After I had taken this medicine about one week I experienced wonderful sensations. My whole body seemed to be undergoing a radical change, until, finally, the tumor broke and discharged frightful quantities. From this time it decreased in size until the bunch disappeared, but my neck still bears the ugly scars of the sore and the lance. I am now healthy and strong and able to work every day.
I will also mention that I have been an acute sufferer from inflammatory rheumatism ever since I can remember, until commencing the use of VEGETINE, when almost immediately all rheumatic pains ceased. This statement I volunteer for the purpose of benefiting other suffering humanity; and you will confer a favor by giving it as much publicity as thought proper.
Very gratefully,
O. M. SAVELS, Ashland, Mass.

What is Vegetine?
It is a compound extracted from barks, roots and herbs. It is nature's remedy. It is perfectly harmless from any bad effect upon the system. It is nourishing and strengthening. It acts directly upon the blood. It quiets the nervous system. It gives you a good, sweet sleep at night. It is a great panacea for our aged fathers and mothers, for it gives them strength, quiets their nerves, and gives them nature's sweet sleep—as has been proved by many an aged person. It is the great Blood Purifier. It is a soothing remedy for our children. It has relieved and cured thousands. It is very pleasant to take; every child likes it. It relieves and cures all diseases originating from impure blood. Try the VEGETINE. Give it a fair trial for your complaints; then you will say to your friend, neighbor and acquaintance, "Try it, it has cured me."

Report from a Practical Chemist and Apothecary.
BOSTON, Jan 1, 1874.
Dear Sir: This is to certify that I have sold at retail 151½ dozen (1852 bottles) of your VEGETINE since April 12, 1870, and can truly say that it has given me best satisfaction of any remedy for the complaints for which it is recommended that I ever sold. Scarcely a day passes without some of my customers testifying to its merits on themselves or their friends. I am perfectly cognizant of several cases of scrofulous Tumors being cured by VEGETINE alone in this vicinity.
Very respectfully yours,
A. L. GILMAN, 464 Broadway.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1875.

THE SURFEIT CURE.

We learn from a Baltimore journal that the board of visitors of the jail in that city have consented to the making of a new sanitary experiment upon inebriate prisoners. It is said to have effected some very satisfactory results in private reformatories, and consists of giving the confirmed drunkard a surfeit of spirituous liquors. His bread is moistened with rum; his meat is cooked in a thimbleful of gin, and a little whiskey is dropped into the water or coffee, or whatever liquid is given him to drink. After a time, it is said, he learns to loathe the faintest taste or smell of alcohol, and prefers starvation to the fare passed into his cell window.

Possibly a like system might be tried with excellent effect upon some of our social nuisances. The person, for example, who breakfasts on onions and garlic, and then thrusts himself into the unwilling company of an omnibus load of his fellowmen, might be kept for a month on a diet exclusively of the vegetables that have blunted his finer senses, or confined for that time in a close room and forced to breathe the unsavory atmosphere with which he has voluntarily surrounded himself. The person, too, who is learning to play the bagle and practices the scales in a hall bedroom of his lodging house, where nothing but a thin partition separates him from the retreat of a nervous invalid or the study of a man of letters—might he not receive some moral benefit from a short imprisonment in a musical conservatory where he would be forced to hear the din of trumpets and bassoons from morning till night and from night till morning? An application of the surfeit cure would not be amiss in the case of certain political pests whom the country would fain get rid of. If the gentlemen from Massachusetts who have lately made themselves conspicuous as advocates of paper money could be compelled to receive nothing but irredeemable notes for twenty five years after their neighbors have resumed the use of gold and silver, not only would their idolatry become loathsome to themselves, but their fate would serve as such a fearful warning to their disciples and their disciples' children that we might consider the heresy crushed out for all coming time. There are several gentlemen in Pennsylvania calling themselves "protectionists" who would scarcely relish, we fancy, the prospect of putting fifty dollars into the pockets of their rich friends every time they buy a hundred dollars worth of the necessaries of life for their families if they were condemned to continue this custom a score of years after the rest of the people had come down to a solid and sensible rule of faith and practice. —[New York Evening Post.

SPARE THAT TREE.

People scarcely realize the immense consumption of our forests annually, and that the demand for lumber, railroad ties and fuel is far in excess of the annual growth of forest trees. In the N. Y. World we find a few statistics on this subject, which deserve to be studied. For railroad ties alone, the country annually requires 94,520,000 cubic feet, equal to 738,515 cords of wood, to supply which at least 2,000,000 cords of standing timber have to be cut down. F. M. Maury estimates the annual yield of the Virginia forests at about 50 cords an acre. So that about 40,000 acres of woodland are yearly cleared to supply our railroads with ties. This is a demand that will increase rapidly, as railroad building is one of our special enterprises. In some places it is evidently regarded as an amusement—the more the building, the more the fun. About 50,000,000 cords of wood, denuding perhaps 600,000 acres, are annually consumed as fuel. Iron foundries use up about 5000 acres of fuel in the form of charcoal in a year. The annual consumption of the country in lumber is 20,000,000,000 feet, representing 2,000,000 acres. Twenty five million acres of wood were destroyed to fence the country, and it requires about 2,500,000 annually to keep the fences in repair. The total annual consumption of forests is about 3,000,000 acres. Our forest lands are estimated at 380,000,000 acres, so that at the present rate of consumption they will last less than 100 years. After making allowances for the growth of timber in that time, we see no way by which the inevitable can be averted—the obliteration of our forests at no distant day. Such will be the case unless the country is aroused to the importance of tree culture without delay. In some places frivolous attempts have been made in this direction. But the result is too insignificant to be mentioned in the problem how to keep ahead of forest consumption. That a general systematic plan will be adopted and carried out, we have no reason to doubt, but it will not become of moment until the general scarcity of wood for the various uses of our civilization shall have become serious. Then we will begin the practice of that economy which ought to prevail now, and the putting in operation of a tree culture equal to the exigency.

A BOLD RESOLVE IN A DANGEROUS SITUATION.—A remarkable instance of presence of mind on the part of a captain of a man-of-war is related by the St. Petersburg papers. Last month the Russian war frigate Olaf, which had escorted the yacht of the Czarowitz to Copenhagen, was lying at anchor among many other ships in the harbor, when a fire was discovered in the coal cellar below, which was only a few feet from the powder magazine. There was no time to put out the fire before it could reach the magazine, and explosion of the large stores of cartridges and gunpowder contained in it would probably have destroyed not only the Olaf and the surrounding ships but part of Copenhagen itself. Captain Rebbinder, the commander of the Olaf, saw at once that the only thing to be done to prevent a catastrophe was to sink the ship. After sending away the crew, with the ship's papers, cash boxes, and most valuable instruments in boats, he ordered the carpenters and engineers to make a leak in the vessel, and half an hour afterward she sank in not very deep water. Next day she was raised again, and after some provisional repairs was taken to Cronstadt, where she is now lying in the dock pending her complete restoration for service. The damage done is stated to be comparatively trifling, and the court martial held on the officers of the vessel unanimously expressed the highest praise of the conduct of the captain and subordinates. The emperor has appointed him his aide-de-camp, which is one of the highest honors conferred on Russian naval officers, and the officers and men under him have received gratuities from the emperor's privy purse. —[Pall Mall Gazette.

POINT D'ALENCON LACE.—It is estimated that there are 500,000 lace makers in Europe, of whom nearly one half are employed in France. Almost all of the latter work at home. Of the French laces the most noted is the point D'Alencon, which has had a wide celebrity for more than two centuries, and has been styled the queen of lace. It is made entirely by hand with a fine needle on a parchment pattern, in small pieces which are afterward united by invisible seams. The firmness and solidity of the texture are remarkable. Horse hair is often introduced along the edge to give firmness. Although the workmanship of this lace has always been of great beauty, the designs in the older specimens were seldom copied from nature. This circumstance gave a marked advantage to the laces of Brussels, which represented flowers and other natural designs with a high degree of accuracy. The defect, however, has disappeared in the point D'Alencon of recent manufacture; at the Paris exposition of 1867 were specimens containing admirable copies of natural flowers, intermixed with grasses and ferns. Owing to its elaborate construction, this lace is seldom seen in large pieces. A dress made of point D'Alencon, the production of Bayeux, consisting of two flounces and trimmings, was exhibited at the exposition of 1867, the price of which was 85,000 francs. It required forty women seven years to complete it.—[Appleton's American Cyclopedia.

THE HISTORY OF CHURCH PEWS.—In the early days of the Anglo-Saxon and some of the Norman churches, a stone bench running around the interior of the church, except the east side, was the only sitting accommodation for its members and visitors. In 1319, the people are represented as sitting on the ground or standing. A little later the people introduced low, three-legged stools promiscuously over the church. Soon after the Norman conquest wooden seats were introduced. In 1357 a decree was issued in regard to the wrangling for seats, so common, that none should call any seat in church his own except noblemen and patrons, each entering and holding the one he first found. From 1520 to 1540 seats were more appropriated, a cross bar guarded the entrance, bearing the initial letters of the owner. In 1608 galleries were introduced. And as early as 1614 pews were arranged to afford comfort by being baized or cushioned while the sides around were so high as to hide the occupants—a device of the Puritans to avoid being seen by the officers, who reported those who did not stand when the name of Jesus was mentioned.

THE PRODUCTIVE POWER OF THE SOIL INCREASED BY CULTIVATION.

It is difficult to ascertain the amount of crops, or the average yield, of very distant times past, but the average yield per acre of wheat in the eleventh century was estimated by the highest authority of that day, the author of "Flets," at only six bushels. Two 300 years later, in 1290, 57 acres on a farm at Hawsted yielded only 366 bushels, and on an average of three years, little more than that. The actual productive power of Great Britain in the article of wheat alone increased during the half century from 1801 to 1851 to the extent of supporting an additional population of 700,000, an increase which can be ascribed with confidence mainly to improved cultivation. So in every country where agriculture receives the attention it deserves the productive power of the soil has largely increased. Even the Atlantic states of the Union, where the system of cultivating the soil without maintaining its fertility by a proper treatment prevailed for many years, are not an exception since the condition of agriculture is rapidly improving in the oldest of them, where this system was earliest begun, and the general average of crops, with the exception of the potato, is increasing from year to year as a more proper culture is introduced and persevered in, the farmer being led to improve his practice by the pressure of an increasing population and constantly rising prices. In New England, for instance, the general average yield of Indian corn per acre has risen to about 25 bushels, while crops of 50 and 60 bushels per acre are not uncommon, and 80 and 100 are sometimes obtained by careful tillage.—[Appleton's American Cyclopedia, revised edition, article "Agriculture."

FIRE ALARM REGULATIONS.

To send out an alarm.

Any person who discovers a fire is requested to immediately give the alarm by crying fire, and going to the box nearest the fire, to send out a general alarm by procuring the key, unlocking the box, and firmly putting the hook down, once only, then closing the door, being careful to see that it is locked, and returning the key.

The person sending out an alarm in a box is requested to remain near said box until the first engine arrives, to direct the firemen to the exact locality of the fire.

Cautions.

Never pull a box if the bell going inside is striking or the machinery of the box is heard running.

Do not pull a box for a fire seen at a distance, or unless you are aware of the locality of a fire.

Keys to boxes are requested not to allow their keys to be taken except by responsible parties.

Bell Ringers.

Bell ringers are engaged to ring the fire and church bells in connection with the telegraphic alarm:—

The First and North Baptist, United Congregational and Emmanuel will, in case occasion to ring, hear respective bells for five minutes immediately after the telegraphic alarm has completed its four rounds, and then to repeat eight times the number of the box from which the alarm is sent.

Recall.

Nine blows upon the telegraphic alarm bells will indicate that the fire is out and that the services of the department are not required.

Testing the Apparatus.

One stroke on the bells by the telegraphic alarm will simply indicate that the apparatus is in good order.

LOCATION OF BOXES AND KEYS.

Box No. 6.—On Lysander Stevens's house, Thames street, opposite Bridge street.

Keys at Lysander Stevens's and Daniel C. Denham's.

Box No. 7.—Mrs. Sylvanus Wilbour's house, corner of Touro and Spring streets.

Keys at Harwood P. Read's and G. T. Dubois's.

Box No. 4.—Downing's Block on Downing street near Bellevue avenue.

Keys at George T. Downing's, Bellevue avenue; Enos Hayward's Downing street and William A. Williams's, Downing Block.

Box No. 5.—On J. T. Burdick & Co's store, corner of Thames street and Brown & Howard's wharf.

Keys at J. T. Burdick & Co's store, C. H. Burdick's, Thames street and Thomas Chambers's, corner Brown & Howard's wharf.

Keys also in the hands of the firewards, city marshal and all the members of the police force.

THE HON. THOMAS ALLEN JENCKES.

The Hon. Thomas Allen Jenckes died at his home in Cumberland yesterday morning, aged fifty seven years and one day.

Mr. Jenckes graduated at Brown University at the age of twenty years, and immediately entered on the study and practice of law. The first case in which he became conspicuous was a case under the bankrupt law of 1841, tried before Judge Story. Mr. Jenckes carried his case against old and able lawyers, and against the opinions of most of the legal authorities of the time. Mr. Jenckes rose to a prominent place at the bar with unusual rapidity and was long regarded as the foremost man of his profession in the state. His specialties were patent and commercial law.

In the Dorr war he adhered to the regular authorities which he supported both in a civil and military capacity. He was a secretary of the "landholders' convention" of 1841 and of the convention that framed the present constitution of the state in 1842. He also became secretary of the governor's council when that was established. For four years he was secretary of the house of representatives, and afterwards served many years as a member of the General Assembly. There he made a remarkable speech in the celebrated case of Hazard and Ives, involving the right of the General Assembly to revise the judgments of the court, so far as to direct a new trial. This speech, with that of Nathan F. Dixon, afterwards his colleague in Congress, carried the General Assembly against its own previous opinion, against what was undoubtedly the popular sentiment and the prejudice of tradition, and against some of the most powerful appeals ever made to the people of the state. This was one of the greatest forensic triumphs in the annals of Rhode Island.

In 1855 Mr. Jenckes was appointed with Samuel Ames, Benjamin T. Eames, Wingate Hayes and Henry Howard to revise the statutes of the state. In 1862 he was elected to the Thirty-eighth Congress, and was re-elected at three successive elections, his period of service extending from 1863 to 1871, eight of the most important and exciting years of the country's history. He was a member of the judiciary committee and chairman of the committee on patents. He lacked only a few votes of being elected one of the managers of the impeachment of Andrew Johnson.

Outside of this state Mr. Jenckes will be best remembered by the present bankrupt law, of which he was the author, and the ill-fated civil service reform, of which he was the bold and energetic advocate. In him there was nothing of the demagogue or the office-seeker, and he perhaps underestimated the amount of resistance that would be made to his project by men whose bread and butter, and whose political hopes all hung upon patronage. The civil service reform has been abandoned to political harpies by men who might have firmly established it had their acts at all resembled their words. But the country owes an immense debt to Mr. Jenckes for his efforts to cleanse our Augean stable.

Mr. Jencks was not ordinarily sociable, and his want of enthusiasm was a subject of joke among his friends. There was nothing about him to make him popular, and he was the last man in the world to seek political advancement by the arts of the demagogue or the wire puller. His coldness and apathy gave him a reputation for selfishness. Everything that he won, however, he won by his own merits, and he has left a name that will long be remembered, not only in Rhode Island, but in the country at large, as that of a man of singular acuteness and force of character, and one who deserved well of his countrymen.

THE MOTIVE POWER OF THE NOVEL.

Woman is the satisfactory explanation of the novel, its ample apology. The novel is that part of literature which is decorated, for the most part, by the beauty of woman. It is woman in literature. I mean by this, not that woman is the whole subject-matter. She cannot be; but she is the inspiration, the central figure in the group, the reason of grouping, the apology for it, the explanation of it, the decoration, the golden light flung over the thought. Let me illustrate. While Madame Recamier lived, the great men of France—generals, statesmen, scientific men, literary men of every kind, and even clergymen—met in her parlors every day at four o'clock. Not because they loved her or she them—for it is said she loved nobody deeply,—and they met, not because of her conversation, for she said little, but they convened every day because there was an inspiration in her presence, something that sweetly moulded the hour. They met because her beauty, her friendship, was a glorious flag under which to convene, and when she departed from life, those great men convened no more. Not because the questions of war or theology had been answered, but because their hearts had been freed from that charming entanglement. This is all. What a power to inspire has the single sentiment called "love!" I believe that is the best name for it—or friendship. What an influence it does exert upon all our years between fifteen and —and—eighty! We have all known the poor sewing-girl to [illegible] and sing far into the dreamy night, not because sewing-machines and poverty are sweet, but because there is something in that deep attachment she has to some human being, which will take up a life of varied cares and sorrows and will baptise them all into its great flowing river, and make this very life all beauty by its coloring. This, then, is what I mean by saying that woman is the inspiration of that part of literature called the novel. The great Hindoo nation produced a beautiful system of morals and quite a good system of scientific thought and truth, but no novel. Why? Because the reason of the novel had not been permitted to exist. The Hindoo world denied the existence of woman as a mental and spiritual being, and thus, having held back the cause the effect failed to put in an appearance. The novel rose up out of the land which emancipated woman; and ever since that day the novel has been the photograph of woman, beautiful as she is beautiful, wretched where she declines.—[David Swing.

ENLARGEMENT OF THE CABINET.—An able article, on the "Enlargement and Reorganization of the Cabinet," appeared in the last issue of Leslie's Illustrated Paper. It presents the subject in a concise, statesmanlike manner, and evinces close study on the part of the writer, who says:—"Agriculture is the primary source of our prosperity and national wealth, and though we have $14,126,000,000, actually invested in and represented by it, it has failed to receive that attention which its importance demands, and should receive, by a representation in the Cabinet." Mining is another great resource left without any suitable provision commensurate with its importance, with a capital invested of $223,000,000, and a product in 1770 of $153,000,000. Education, the great foundation upon which all governments rest, all business stands, is now almost left to care for itself, but it is recommended by the author of this article, that suitable provision be made for it in the executive Cabinet, thus causing its great importance to be fully recognized.

THE MYSTERIES OF THE DETECTIVE SYSTEM.

The detective system is one of the most efficient and curious of our police organizations. Besides the detectives on the regular force there is a large organization which is better run than the municipal police. For crime, the detectives of the police force are used; but for business purposes, the private organizations are regarded as very superior. The amount of business done is marvelous, and probably no business is as profitable as that of a private detective who gets the run of the business and the confidence of the community. The departments have headquarters and a corps of men, the shrewdest and sharpest in the country, ready to move on the slightest notice. It demands a peculiar gift to be a successful detective. He must be a gentleman, intelligent, sharp-witted, silent, energetic, and able to transform himself into anything—vender of peanuts; a seller of pencils on the sidewalk; a crippled Irishman; an Italian organ grinder; and above all, one who has the knowledge of men.

One of our banks kept losing money, only in small sums, yet the loss was constant and mysterious. A celebrated detective was called in. "Let everybody leave the directors' room," he said. "Send in everybody, one by one, who has had any chance to steal." So the president, the cashier, and the tellers, book-keepers and clerks, had a private interview with the detective. Everyone in the bank knew the purpose of the visit, and all but one were slightly nervous and uncomfortable under the searching questions of the chief. The last who entered was a nephew of the president. He walked in cool, unembarrassed, and indifferent, and with an air that said "Proceed," He was dismissed as well as the rest. The detective said not a word, left the bank, and in one week returned. He had been shadowing the president's nephew. In a clear, fair hand, was written out the whereabouts of the young man for the last six days, the company he kept, what he drank, the hours he spent on the road, his night orgies, and all his movements by night and by day. Nobody in the bank knows to-day that the president's nephew was the thief: That his health was not good, that he was traveling in Europe, and that his place in the bank was filled by another, was well known. The bank was saved from robbery, the family from dishonor, the detective commended for his skill and prudence, and was all the happier for a check of $1000. A detective told me that in ten years he had never failed to detect the culprit.—[Burleigh's N. Y. Letter to Boston Journal.

THE SONG OF THE SHIRT.—An anecdote which Mark Lemon loved to tell, related to the time when Tom Hood became a contributor to Punch. Looking over his letters one morning, he opened an envelope enclosing a poem which the writer said had been rejected by three contemporaries. If not thought available for Punch, he begged the editor, whom he knew but slightly, to consign it to the waste-paper basket, as the author was "sick at the sight of it." The poem was signed "Tom Hood," and the lines were entitled "The Song of the Shirt." The work was altogether different from anything that had appeared in Punch, and was so much out of keeping with the spirit of the periodical that at the weekly meeting its publication was opposed by several members of the staff. Mark Lemon was so firmly impressed, not only with the beauty of the work, but with its suitability for the paper, that he stood by his first decision and published it. By a letter written by Tom Hood to Mark Lemon, which we have for the moment mislaid, it appears that the question of illustrating the poem was entertained and discussed. The lines, however, were published without illustration, except that humorous border of grotesque figures which made up "Punch's Procession" on December 16, 1843. "The Song of the Shirt" trebled the sale of the paper and created a profound sensation throughout Great Britain.—[London Society.

AMERICAN EDGE TOOLS IN FAVOR IN ENGLAND.—Edge tools of American manufacture both in the British markets and those tributary to it. American firms, taking advantage of the steadily improving facilities for working steel, both sheer and cast, have made such improvements as to bring their products into general favor on the other side and the Wolverhampton people appear to be quite uneasy about it. The most important movement, however, toward making the competition effectual is the proposed establishment of branch factories in England. By this means it is thought goods can be marketed at less expense than by shipping them from one country to the other. A firm of cast steel shovel makers at Pittsburgh, who have recently brought out a shovel in which the straps, though of iron, are compacted with the steel during the process of casting, and who are making at a very low figure and with very little manual labor, shovels that are getting very rapidly into use throughout the states, are now making a movement in that direction.

BRIEF, BUT TO THE POINT.—When the English fleet under Lord Nelson was bearing down upon the French ship anchored in Aboukir bay, just before the ever memorable battle of the Nile, the captain of one of the British vessels addressed his crew at considerable length, and having exhorted them to remember their duty, and what their country required at their hands, he turned to the captain of marines and said: "Now sir, you have heard what I have said to the ship's company; it may be as well for you to say something to the men more particularly under you." Upon which the marine officer commanded "attention!" and addressed them in the following pithy and laconic manner: "My lads, do you see that land?" pointing to the shores which they were rapidly nearing. "That," said he, "is the land of Egypt; and if you don't fight like the deuce, you'll soon be in the house of bondage." The effect was electrical.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

—James H. Clarke has returned from New York in greatly improved health.

—Yesterday the schooner Prudence was loading 700 barrels of powder at the fort to go to New York.

—Miss Bennett, James Gordon Bennett's sister, returned to New York last night, and the Cushing villa is closed.

—Sidney B. Morse of Portsmouth, who has been spending several years in Europe, goes South in a few days for the Winter.

—Mrs. Crawford, the wife of the keeper of the breakwater lighthouse, fell overboard yesterday into sixteen feet of water and was rescued with difficulty.

—Mr. W. T. Blodgett, a Summer resident of this place, died at his home in New York yesterday afternoon. He had been in failing health for some time.

—Before the court of justices this morning a complaint was made against Charles Cotter for assault upon Officer Garnett and was continued to next Friday.

—The subscribers to the institution and those wishing to become such, are invited to meet at the Gymnasium (Burton's Hall on Levin street) at 5 P. M. tomorrow.

—For the Winter, six of the night police will be on duty from seven to one o'clock, when the other six will go on duty and remain till eight o'clock, to be relieved by the day force.

—The building to be erected by Mr. Pray on Spring street is to be 23 feet front by 33 feet deep. A store is to be made in the lower story and the upper part is to be fitted for a tenement.

—The wrecking schooner Young America arrived here today with the cables, anchors, sails, rigging, etc., of the schooner Mary E. McHale of Providence which was wrecked near Watch Hill.

—Messrs. J. T. Burdick & Co., had dressed for them a pair of oxen, one weighing 2272 pounds and the other 2100 pounds. They were raised by General Hazard on his farm. The beef has been decided by competent judges to be some of the finest ever seen in this market.

—The Rogers High School orchestra have reorganized and are under the leadership of Prof. W. F. Marshall. They number about ten players and are making excellent progress in their musical efforts. They were visited last night by a committee of the lecture association, who are considering the expediency of hiring this organization to furnish the music for the lectures.

THE MIDDLETOWN RACES.

Yesterday proved very disagreeable, but there was no postponement of the races. The horses from abroad had arrived, and it was insisted upon by their owners that the races come off. For the first race of $100, the following horses were entered: George Linham ns. b. g. Frank: E. B. Chadwick ns. w. g. Cotton Tail. In the first heat the start was even, but Cotton Tail soon took the lead, and at the first quarter was six lengths ahead. At this point both horses broke. Frank soon crept up and when seven eighths of the track was gone over, came up with his opponent, passing the stand the first time. It was a tie, and Cotton Tail soon led again, lost his advantage soon after, and from this time down to the starting point a splendid race ensued, coming down the home stretch neck and neck, Frank passing under the wire first by a neck only. Time—1:30: 3:01.

The second heat was without exception the best of the day. After two attempts the horses passed under the wire in good order and continued to keep company around the track, until within fifty yards of the stand, when Frank gained a slight advantage which was kept up the whole of the second half mile, Frank coming in five lengths ahead of Cotton Tail. Time—1:31; 3:00.

In the third heat the start was good. The horses kept together for the first half, passing the stand a dead heat. Frank trotted splendidly, and gaining on Cotton Tail, came in four lengths ahead. Time—1:32; 3:06½.

SUMMARY.

MIDDLETOWN TROTTING PARK, Nov. 4.—Sweepstakes $100, mile trot, three in five.

Geo. Linham's, b. g. Frank	1	1	1
E. B. Chadwick's w. g. Cotton Tail	2	2	2

In the second race, first heat, the horses got well away, Baby taking the lead and kept it throughout. Passing the first quarter, Lon and Beecher were together, but five lengths behind Baby, the two former broke, which gave the latter a decided advantage which enabled Baby to pass the stand five lengths ahead of both. Then came some good trotting between Beecher and Lon, both trotting together, the last quarter, but neither could come up with Baby, who came up in splendid style, six lengths ahead of Lon, Beecher some distance behind the second horse. Time—1:32, 3:05.

In the second heat the horses started together, but Beecher soon got behind. Baby led at the end of the first half. The driver of Lon thought he had traversed the whole distance required, and turned round, but discovered his error and trotted manfully [illegible] made good time, losing only by three lengths. Time, 1;32; 3:05.

In the third heat, Baby led, followed by Beecher and Lon. The latter trotted all round the track in good style, showing he could lead the whole of the horses entered and landed the winner by four lengths. Time, 1:32; 3:02.

The owners of Baby and Beecher declined to compete, as it was growing dark and Lon was declared the winner.

FROM WASHINGTON.

Railway Cases.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.

Wm. M. Evarts concluded the arguments in the Western railroad cases, involving the right of states to regulate railway charges, in the supreme court, today. The case of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy road brought up from Iowa, will be argued in January, at which time the decision in all of these cases will be delivered.

Indictments.

Indictments have been found in due form by the grand jury in the Witowski and Sugg Fort cases. Ex-Congressman Negley was indicted amongst others in the former, and ex-Congressman R. P. Butler, of Tennessee, and Gen. Robert B. Mitchell, of Kansas, with others, in the latter case.

The Whiskey Tax.

The receipts on whiskey, etc., during the last year have been larger than in any year except '70 since the taxes were first imposed and at the increased rates which have been scarcely felt, they will be still further augmented during the current fiscal year.

Republican Rejoicings.

The Republicans will jollify here on Saturday evening by firing a salute of one hundred guns and serenading the President and other officials.

Contradiction.

Judge Niblack, of Indiana, authorizes the contradiction of the report that he is a candidate for clerk of the next House.

No Increase of Taxation.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue will not recommend any increase of taxation this Winter.

FEMALE LABOR IN BERLIN.

Of the 437,000 self-reliant persons in Berlin, there are about 140,000 women so that they are about 35 per cent. of the whole. Seventy-one per cent. of these women have come from abroad. The domain of female labor in Berlin is very comprehensive. To judge from the statistics, women prefer that of common service or hiring out, tailoring, laundry, attendance, millinery, making of artificial flowers and articles of leather, tapestry, manufacturing of cartoons, fancy articles and umbrellas. These branches of industry are sought more by women than men. In the sphere of education and instruction the proportion between the two sexes is nearly equal; there are almost as many male as female educators. The same holds good in the manufacture of laces, fringes, etc., also in attending bathing institutions. The women are largely represented in stores and trading generally, in factories of articles of leather, in restaurants, hotels, furnishing rooms, attendance on the sick, hair dressing and cabinet making, in which they generally as widows continue the business of their deceased husbands.

WILLIAM HAZLITT.—His habits were certainly remarkable. He usually rose from one to two o'clock in the day, and if he had no work on hand, would sit over his breakfast (of excessively strong black tea and a toasted French roll) till four or five in the afternoon. He took a hearty supper late at night at some tavern which did not present its bill until he chose to pay it, he considering it a gross insult for a tavern-keeper to ask him for pay for what he had eaten! His temper was bad, and he was a most difficult person to get along with, taking violent offence at imagined slights. His judgment of the writers contemporary with him was wholly unreliable and founded on reasons which were often farcical. He tried to write down Shelley, because he had seen Shelley and did not like his looks. He disparaged Moore, because the latter in some of his couplets had made what Hazlitt thought an insulting reference to Rousseau, who was one of Hazlitt's idols. His opinion of Byron was, that anybody might have written Byron's poetry, "if they could only have worked themselves up to an equal amount of personal rage and hatred against himself and all mankind."

WHAT PROVIDENCE HAS BEFORE HER.—Charles Nordhoff, who has been studying the prospects of the cotton mills at Providence says: The conclusion which I come to after an attentive though necessarily brief survey of the cotton industry is that it has an extremely promising future, which will be realized as soon as general industry revives. That the mill owners are somewhat too apt to complain of high wages, when they would do better to energetically seek a wider market and use skill and enterprise in trying to adapt their goods to a foreign demand. When trade is very dull, as it is just now, it is not a good time for operatives to strike. That as soon as industry and trade revive factory wages are likely to rise, because there is not, I believe, an actual surplus of operatives if all the mills were working full time. That a lively demand for cotton goods would at once develop a scarcity of at least some kinds of operatives, and hence a natural and inevitable raise in their wages.

And finally, that we are still in this industry in this country at the point where wages will rise or fall, not by the arbitrary intervention of either mill owners or operatives, but by the natural and sufficiently quick operation of the law of supply and demand. The mill owners could better afford to pay higher wages if they had a full demand for their products than they can afford to pay the present rates at the present time of desperation. They cannot afford at any time to oppress their operatives, because those would leave them. They can better afford to work without profit than to stop, because if they stop, their machinery deteriorates, a great part of their expenses continues, and they disorganize and lose their trained laboring force. If these propositions are correct, as I believe they are, there does not exist in the relations between the mill owners and their operatives in this country such a condition of unlimited power on the one side and dependence on the other as would imperil the rights of the operatives or enable their employers to oppress them without risking losses of a kind which they could not afford.

POWER OF CASTE IN BERLIN.—The social penalties of being a parvenu in Berlin must detract a great deal from the pleasure of getting rich. Herr Von Schafer-Voit made a great fortune as proprietor of the Bazar, gazette of fashion, and being a public-spirited citizen as well as a wealthy one, was some years ago raised to the rank of the nobility. His son, however, was refused admission to the Cuirassier Guards on account of his "low birth." He was a gallant young fellow, and entering a regiment of the line won the Iron Cross in the late war and fell bravely at Vionville, rumor insisting that his wounded honor drove him to self-destruction. Society in Berlin now threw open its doors to the publisher of the Bazar and in a short time his daughter was affianced to Count Frederick Eulenburg, rich, high-born and cousin of the somewhat too celebrated homicide, Count Wend Von Eulenburg, who has just been betrothed to the daughter of Prince Bismark. All the seven of society thereupon broke out afresh. The aristocratic officers of the particularly high-stepping regiment of the imperial body-guard, to which Count Frederick belonged, [illegible] sideration that they must decline the honor of his acquaintance. He challenged them and laid a complaint before his colonel and when the colonel sided with them he challenged the colonel too. For this infraction of military discipline he has been sentenced to a year's imprisonment in a fortress, and all Berlin is now on the qui vive to know what will happen when he comes out. The emperor, the royal princes and the powerful Eulenburg family all take his part.

REMEMBER THIS.

Now is the time of the year for Pneumonia, Lung Fever, Coughs, Colds, and fatal results of predisposition to Consumption and other Throat and Lung Disease. Boschee's German Syrup has been used in this neighborhood for the past two or three years without a single failure to cure. If you have not used this medicine yourself, go to James H. Taylor's and ask him of its wonderful success among his customers. Two doses will relieve the worst case. If you have no faith in any medicine, just buy a Sample Bottle of Boschee's German Syrup for 10 cents and try it. Regular size Bottle 75 cents. Don't neglect a cough to save 75 cents.

Enfeebling Pursuits.

Nature intended that we should use our legs freely, and revenges herself upon those who constantly sit at their daily avocations indoors by depriving them of that robust health which usually falls to the share of those who labor on foot in the open air, and very frequently inflicts upon them diseases and premature infirmities which they might have avoided by a more active life. Persons who become enfeebled in consequence of sedentary habits or occupations cannot do better than to resort to a course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters as a means of recovering lost strength. Nor should they postpone a recourse to this supreme tonic and preventive of physical decay longer than is absolutely necessary, as weakness is too often the precursor of disease. The Bitters are also invaluable as a remedy for dyspepsia, constipation, intermittent fever, urinary and rheumatic complaints. nov3-1w-n&j

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED.
SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,
SCHENCK'S SEA WEED TONIC,
SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS.
Are the only medicines that will cure Pulmonary Consumption.

Frequently medicines that will stop a cough will occasion the death of the patient; they lock up the liver, stop the circulation of the blood, hemorrhage follows, and in fact, they clog the action of the very organs that caused the cough.

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia are the causes of two thirds of the cases of Consumption. Many persons complain of a dull pain in the side, constipation, coated tongue, pain in the shoulder blade, feelings of drowsiness and restlessness, the food lying heavily on the stomach, accompanied with acidity and belching up of wind.

These symptoms usually originate from a disordered condition of the stomach or a torpid liver.

Persons so affected, if they take one or two heavy colds, and if the cough in these cases be suddenly checked, will find the stomach and liver clogged, remaining torpid and inactive, and almost before they are aware the lungs are a mass of sores, and ulcerated, the result of which is death.

Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup is an expectorant which does not contain opium or anything calculated to check a cough suddenly.

Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic dissolves the food, mixes the gastric juices of the stomach, aids digestion, and creates a ravenous appetite.

When the bowels are costive, skin sallow, or the symptoms otherwise of a bilious tendency, Schenck's Mandrake Pills are required.

These medicines are prepared only by

GENERAL NEWS.

FROM NEW YORK.

Revival Meetings in Brooklyn.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.

The Brooklyn Tabernacle, where the revival services are conducted by Moody and Sankey, was only half filled this morning Mr. Moody took for his text the verse, "No good thing will the Lord withhold from them that walk upright." Deacon William Richardson, of the Hanson Place Baptist church, prayed for its welfare, and also asked the prayers of the congregation. Mr. Moody suggested holding services on Sunday evening next for non-church-going people. Henry Ward Beecher was present during the services. The usual throng filled the Brooklyn Rink this evening and hundreds were unable to gain admittance. After singing by Mr. Sankey, Mr. Moody preached an eloquent sermon from the text "Seek the Lord while He is near." He rebuked the audience for a lack of earnestness, and said that he had grown tired of the half-heartedness which was exhibited. He gave some examples of what men could accomplish by being terribly in earnest. After singing and a closing prayer the congregation was dismissed; inquiry meetings being afterwards held in the Simpson Methodist Episcopal church adjoining the Rink.

MISCELLANEOUS.

AWFUL TRAGEDY IN INDIANA.

A Father Murders Two of His Children, Attempts the Lives of Others, and Then Commits Suicide.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 4.

The Lakomo Tribune publishes the following: David Robinson came to town yesterday and bought a new suit of clothes and a revolver, after which he went home, showed his purchases to his family and ate his supper. Robinson was in good humor, and appeared perfectly sane. He remarked to his wife that it would have been well if little Dan, his son, had died two weeks ago, and said he had attempted to kill the child. He then drew his revolver and fired at a second son who was lying in bed, and then turned and shot at his wife. Mrs. Robinson ran out of the house and the oldest boy, eight years of age, started to follow, when his father shot him in the face, but the ball glanced off without hurting him badly. The father then struck him on the back of the head with a chair, but the son succeeded in getting out with his mother. Robinson then deliberately took a razor, approached the bed in which lay his only daughter, seized and cut her throat from ear to ear. He followed this murder by taking the life of the son whom he had first shot in bed in the same manner, after which Robinson jumped on his horse and fled. His dead body was found this morning one mile north of Jackson station on the Indianapolis, Peoria and Chicago Railroad. It is supposed he committed suicide.

THE PERILOUS SAND BANK.

Two Men Buried at Greenfield Mass. One of them Fatally Injured.

GREENFIELD, Nov. 4.

A terrible accident occurred at Bardwell's Ferry, this morning. As the steam shovel was being raised, the ground caved in, completely burying James Foley and James Roach. Foley was extricated with one badly sprained leg and other injuries, which it is hoped will not prove serious. It required fifteen minutes rapid digging before Roach was discovered, and he was taken out in a dying condition, both legs and arms broken and otherwise fearfully mangled. There is no hope of his recovery.

THE DOMINION.

The Proposed Transfer of the Funds of the Presbyterian Church in Canada.

MONTREAL, Nov. 4.

Today Judge McKay caused a writ of injunction to issue preventing the board of managers of the temporalities fund of the Presbyterian church in Canada, in connection with the Church of Scotland, from transferring it to the recently formed Presbyterian Church of Canada. The writ was issued on the petition of Rev. Gavin Lang and other non-unionists, who maintain that the fund, which amounts to over $450,000, is the property of the Church of Scotland and cannot go to a newly formed church.

MURDEROUS ASSAULT IN ST. LOUIS.

A Newspaper Man Attacked by Two Lawyers.—The Assailants Arrested.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 4.

As W. P. Smythe, one of the reporters of the Evening Dispatch, stepped out of the criminal court room about noon yesterday, he was savagely assaulted by Presby N. Jones of the law firm of Turner & Jones, knocked down and severely beaten. Turner also struck him over the head severely times with a heavy cane. Smythe managed to regain his feet in a few minutes, and drew a pistol to defend himself, when a police officer arrived, disarmed him, arrested both Jones and Turner, and they were confined in the calaboose. Subsequently a warrant charging them with an assault with intent to kill was sworn out against them, and they were sent to jail. The attack, which was totally unexpected and brutal in character, grew out of mention in the Dispatch of the arrest a few days ago of Jones for drunkenness, and some unprofessional conduct on the part of the firm.

TUESDAY'S ELECTIONS.

Later Returns from New York.—The Empire State Democratic.

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 4.

The Argus claims the state for the Democrats by 10,000 majority. It makes the senate stand 20 Republicans and 12 Democrats, the assembly 62 Republicans and 66 Democrats.

The Evening Journal says our table today makes the state Democratic by a majority of between 8000 and 9000. The senate will stand 22 Republicans and 10 Democrats—more than a two thirds majority. The assembly foots up 72 Republicans and 56 Democrats—a Republican majority of 16. We have special advices from almost every district.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.

The Tribune says Bigelow has 7000 majority. The World claims 10,000 and the Times concedes 5000. The Republicans have elected their candidate for Congress in the Chautauqua district to fill a vacancy.

Wisconsin.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 4.

A private despatch from Madison states that the Republicans there concede the election of the Democratic state ticket with the exception of the governor, and a Democratic majority in the legislature. The returns received here, however, indicate the success of the Republican state ticket, except, perhaps, Baltz and Graham, and a Republican majority in the legislature.

CHICAGO, Nov. 4.

Special despatches to the Journal, the Post and the Mail say the returns received at Madison, Wis., last night and this morning have decidedly changed the complexion of the election in that state and created considerable excitement. The Democrats now claim that their whole ticket has been elected. The assembly is claimed by both parties, and will undoubtedly be very close. The Republicans still claim Ludington's election by 3000 majority. Further returns are awaited with much anxiety.

today are generally unfavorable to the Republicans. It will require an official canvass to determine the result absolutely. Ludington, the Republican candidate for governor, is probably elected by about 1000 majority. The rest of the Republican ticket is probably defeated. The legislature is in doubt.

Minnesota.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 4.

The majority for Pillsbury, the Republican candidate for governor, is over 10,000. The rest of the ticket has the same, except Plaender for treasurer, who is elected by 5000 or 6000 majority. Ignatius Donnelly is probably defeated for the state senate. The legislature is nearly two-thirds Republican.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1875.

MASONIC SIGNS.

These tokens were originally the shapes of the implements in common use; and the original signs were made by placing hands and feet in imitation of those shapes. But Gnosticism, as I have said, introduced new signs and imitated those of the Christian church. Now the most ancient Christian sign is that of the cross. The first Christians made this sign at all hours of the day, and on all occasions. By this sign, as Tertullian witnesses, they recognized one another. This sign the Gnostic renegades imitated, and the imitation which has been handed down, and which is now practiced by Masons, is exactly what an imitation would degenerate into, which had itself been learned from imitators. The Christian sign was, and is, made with the right hand touching the forehead first, then the breast, then the left shoulder, and then the right. The imitation omits the two first movements and only imitates the latter in such a way as to illustrate the penalty of the Entered Apprentice's oath, of which I shall treat presently. But a still closer imitation of the original will be found in the ceremony observed by Masons at their official banquets, which are themselves, probably, the continuance of Gnostic Love-feasts, in imitation and in ridicule of the Christian agape. The Masonic sign made on such occasions with the wine glass, (in response to a proposed toast,) is precisely the same as that made by the celebrant at mass when he moves (according to the most ancient rite, and as still practiced in the Roman Catholic and the Greek church) the chalice from north to south, and from east to west, in the form of a cross. The Mason, when drinking a Masonic toast, says, "Point, left, right; point, left, right," moving his glass in front of him northward, then to the right—that is, in the form of a cross. Of course most English Free Masons are ignorant of this practice in Western and Eastern ritual, which I take to be the origin of this convivial rite. Free Masonry has developed its ceremonies in imitation of ancient Christian ceremonies, as is easily seen by a comparison of the admission of an Apprentice Mason with the ceremonies of baptism—i. e., of admission into the Catholic church. The one will be found in any manual of Free Masonry; the other, concerning the most primitive form of admitting a catechumen, in a Catholic prayer-book. The candidate (of course I speak of adult baptism, the rule of the primitive church) stands without; is asked what he seeks; is led into the church. In Free Masonry, the candidate (who is blindfolded, his breast bared, and a cable tow placed round his neck, while a "brother" holds the point of a sword to his breast) stands without, is led into the lodge, and is asked what he seeks. It is worthy of remark that in the Christian ceremonial the candidate has his eyes open, but in the Masonic ritual he is blindfolded.

"VOT YOU LIVES ON ANY WAYS?"

A well known citizen of Toledo, in the ordinary drift and current of business, became possessor of the note of a German saloon keeper. The note becoming due, he took it to the party and presented it for payment. The man of drinks was not prepared to liquidate his obligation, and asked for an extension of time. This being granted, and the conditions settled properly, he was turning to leave when the German said:

"Shoost vait you leedle whiles, und I gifs you ein glass goot peers."

"No, I thank you, I don't drink beer," was the reply.

"Vell den, I gifs you veeskees thot is petter as so mooch."

"No, thank you, I don't drink whiskey."

"Sho! den, I know how I fix you; I have goot vines," jerking down a bottle with a flourish.

Again the quiet, "No, thank you, I don' drink wine."

"Vot! you don't thrinks noddings; vell I gifs you ein goot shegar."

Once more, "No, thank you, I don't smoke."

"Mein Gott," exclaimed the Dutchman, throwing up both hands, "no peers, no veeskees, no vines, no dobacco, no noddings—vat you lives on anyways—botatoes, oh?"

"Yes, I live on potatoes. Good morning."

And away went the note-holder, leaving the saloon-keeper staring after him in a maze of wonderment how such a goodly constitution as that he looked on could possibly be supported without the prime essentials of life that formed his stock in trade.—[Toledo Blade.

An amusing incident occurred recently at one of Sims Reeves's concerts in Glasgow, Scotland, when "Auld Lang Syne" was sung. In the programme it was stated in parenthesis that "the audience will oblige by singing the chorus." The audience did join at the close of the first verse, drowning Mr. Reeves and his choristers, and falling nearly two bars behind. Mr. Reeves looked quite bewildered; turned to the choristers, and then addressed the audience in the following terms: "Ladies and gentlemen—There must be some mistake here. If the audience has been requested to join in the chorus, it was unknown to me. I have gentlemen here to sing the chorus, and I pray the audience will allow us to go through the song as originally intended." The song was thereafter allowed to go on unassisted

The "Remington" Still Victorious!!

The increase of sales over last year were over 85 per cent more than any other Sewing Machine.
The REMINGTON MACHINE has sprung rapidly into favor, as possessing the best combination of qualities namely:

Light Running, Smooth, Noiseless, Rapid, Durable, with Perfect Lock-Stitch, the Design Beautiful, and Connections the Very Best.

The same machine will do light and heavy work, and the attachments are so perfect that they can be changed in a moment to suit any material, coarse or fine.
The IMPROVEMENTS made on the REMINGTON are the most desirable ever made on any sewing machine, thereby insuring extreme light running and ease of management.
To the public we would say, before purchasing a machine, call and examine the REMINGTON SEWING MACHINE, and we have full confidence in saying that you will buy no other.

The Immense Sales Attest their Popularity.
